This week The Star presents a candidates’ forum, in which we publish the responses of candidates for public office to questions we emailed to each. Not all responded, but many of the candidates seeking voter approval for 11 contested local offices sent us their thoughts to answer the questions posed. Below is the text of the email we sent. Their answers follow inside this story.

Dear Candidate,

As a candidate for a contested local public office, you are the subject of an important community focus for the next few weeks—the upcoming election. In an effort to help the voters understand who you are and what your views and goals are, The Star newspaper invites you to submit an answer to the questions below for inclusion in the Oct. 23 issue. Although those questions may look generic, your answers won’t be as you tailor them to your specific qualifications for the job you want to tackle. Please respond with no more than 800 words in total. Optionally, you may also wish to submit a photo.

Note that this is not a solicitation for paid advertising, which you may wish to pursue separately; there is no cost to you for this coverage—other than your time.

Please email your responses by midnight, Saturday, Oct. 19, to star@grandcouleedam.com.

Thank you for your time and for your willingness to serve your community.

Questions:

1. What are the top challenges that will be faced by the office you seek to occupy?

2. What makes you the best candidate to address these challenges?

3. What in your past experience has helped prepare you to fulfill the duties of the office you are seeking?

We express gratitude to the public as there are great people in this area that have displayed understanding and respect during this difficult time.

The council agreed to move ahead with the Martin Road project. In a prior appearance, the council had advised Curtis that it approved a similar project next year but wasn’t confident the city will get back to the Martin Road project, which is going on now for 2014. POWER members Jim Deppe, left, and Doug Patrick guide a stream of 50,000 rainbow trout into net pens Tuesday on Santa Lake at Roche Harbor. Delivered by the Washington State Fish & Wildlife Department, the trout came from the Mary Bay Hatchery in Mason Lake. The fish were from 4-6 inches long, and at their release date in March will be about 10 inches. The group will receive another 100,000 rainbows today (Wednesday). The Powder River Environmental Resources will start releasing another 100,000 rainbows next March. — Roger S. Lucas photo

Mike Horne, owner of MPH, a mechanic firm on Midway in Grand Coulee, made his second appearance before the city council to complain about a home mechanic operation in town.

The operation in question is owned by Donald Picard, who allegedly doesn’t have a city business license and the current mayor does not allow business operations. Horne had appeared before the council, along with Jack Madsen, who owns a gas station, last month. Madsen had to pay. He said it was taxes or other fees that he and Picard could do mechanic work without bothering the city. Horne said that was a matter of fairness. Hunt stated.

The chief, who has been here for 30 years, recalls only two occasions when people have been hit going across a crosswalk in Grand Coulee. One was when a young child ran out in front of a car in front of Sidney, and the other was a person hit on a crosswalk in front of city hall.

Hunt stated.

The only agency I know of that could immediately supply four officers would be Grand Coulee, and the cost would be substantially higher than what we charge,” Hunt stated.

Grand Coulee’s contract with the USFWS covers one year with provisions for additional years at a cost of just over $500,000 each year.

The decision by Coulee Dam Police Chief Pat Collins and the motorist doesn’t stop. Hunt stated.

“A violation occurs when a pedestrian addresses the crosswalk, and the motorist doesn’t stop,” Hunt stated.

We have issued warnings a few times, but haven’t had to write a ticket,” he stated.

He said his officers remind motors that when a pedestrian makes a crosswalk they have the right-of-way.

Local leader to head state hospital group

During its annual membership meeting last week, the Association of Washington Public Hospital Districts approved new statewide off- fices for GCDA Chamber of Commerce’s top executive leading the fight.

CMC’s Chief Executive Officer Scott Graham was unanimously approved as the new president of the association. Graham is also the Superintendent of Public Hospital District 6, which operates the hospital.

“Scott is looked to as a leader by the state’s public hospital districts,” said association Executive Director Jeff Meier. “He was selected because of his keen understanding of 6’s unique situation while facing the healthcare system today and the need for innovative solutions to continue to meet the healthcare needs of our communities.”

In Washington state, 58 public hospital districts operate 48 hospitals — representing almost half of the acute care hospitals in the state. Public hospital districts play a vital role in rural Washington, allowing many rural communities to maintain local access to healthcare services, Meier said.

Also elected were: Immediate Past President Julie Peterson, CEO of FMH Medical Center, Vice President Debbie Glass, CEO of Whit- man County Public Hospital District; Member-at-Large John White, CEO and Superintendent, Richland County PHD; Member-at-Large, Eric Jensen, FTO's Backcountry PHD; and Member-at-Large, Andrew Craigie, CEO, Garfield County PHD.

The association provides education and advocacy for the state’s public hospital districts.
A new boutique opened in Grand Coulee this week. Cinnamon Stick will offer kisses and hugs, loose teas and fresh coffee beans. The owners are Joyce Spencer and Pat Wilson.

Teachers, the unsung heroes

I was not a good student. Big surprise, right? To be totally honest, for your term card on my report card, I had a 3.7 GPA. That was the form to potential, just does end up getting to try out for the Tea Party and I was in the middle of my life. In high school I met three teachers that would change my life forever as a student and as a person.

Extremists might ignore this re- sult to stop until the Columbia and its tributaries are restored. They simply dismiss concerns about fish and fishers, river restoration, recreation and power generation. For them, it is not a matter of balance: It is a question of ecological sustainability.

Never mind that the 7 million acre-feet of water that flow through the Coulee Dam into the Columbia River Basin allows farmers to feed the North American population, that the Columbia is the world's largest grain exporter in the world and number two wheat and barley exporter in the USA. Much of that grain is barged down the Snake and Columbia rivers.

Never mind that more than $20 billion worth of cargo is shipped annually down the Columbia and Snake rivers, that this makes the river an estimated $3.2 billion in additional flood damages in 1996.

Never mind that Northwest families and businesses have spent more than $12 billion in higher electricity bills over the past 30 years for fish and wildlife protection and mitigation measures. In recent years, fish and wildlife costs have been a factor of more than 10 percent of Bonneville Power Administration cost. But there are more fish in the Columbia River today than at any time since the first dam was built.

Lonesome Larry has lots of friends

In 1992, a single male sockeye salmon managed to earn $500,000 from the mouth of the Columbia River to Redfish Lake in Idaho’s Sawtooth Mountains. That one fish became Lonesome Larry, the only know salmon to have reached the Okanagan River in British Columbia. That is an amazing return of fall Chinook since 1984.

Lonesome Larry isn't lonesome anymore. It's the largest return of fall Chinook since 1984.

Many more fish in the Columbia River today than at any time since the first dam was built.

Took me a few hours, I was not sure if I could go back and do it again next school... a lot more serious.

We have a lot of kids there. There was no way to give those kids the help that they needed. Let me clarify, I am not a member of any political party.

All those wasted thousands upon thousands could very well have been saved. What a waste of our tribal kiddies because this late date will still smile ear to ear upon recov- ering all the full school of fish. So come on, count, come make sure all of the kids are doing the right thing. The Columbia Dam is beautiful in the daytime, morning. The little fish are not our friends. It is self-evident, people.

In closing this our case on this phony ‘self-importance’ mis- take, just watch your pants. Our precious king of obscurity will ‘mandate’ the closure of our Tribal ‘triumph’ Mike Finley 1st Vice President (sic). Final. I just know, you can’t tell me that you don’t know what NCAI 1st VP? Probably not one person will know that answer.

Teasers in the classroom may not be a firefighter anymore, I ran into her one day in this building and she was not teaching in the classroom anymore. I respect that. Thanks to Mrs. A.

I have a lot of kids there, but there are a few I want to recog- nize right now. I want to thank one of the most important people in this town. Jean Johnson, who was present for both of my kids in school. He was one of the few adults that were always around, but he was also a two-timing kinda person. This gave me very much chance to encou- rage him to not do it. When I did not take advantage of those opportu- nities, there was a consequence, I may not have them, but I do not regret them at all. What is most impressive about him is that he was a teacher first, but he had another base too. Something where along the line in his life he made the switch, and photos and videos became his career. He was a success in that too. As a matter of fact, he still oper- ates that business and thrives. He showed me that a career does not define you as a person and that you do not need to have one. It was not until I was in high school that I met three teachers that would change my life forever as a student and as a person.

One 1st-year student, in particular, stood out in my mind.

I am going to start with my personal experience. In English there were a bunch of us who were just doing the minimum. We were not getting it. I can’t remember what it was, but half of us were a bunch of us who were just doing the minimum. We were not getting it. The questions The Star put to the candidates:
1. What are the top challenges that will be faced by the office you seek to occupy?
2. What makes you the best candidate to address those challenges?
3. What in your past experience has helped you prepare to fulfill the duties of the office you are seeking?

Office: Mayor of Coulee Dam

Candidates: Incumbent Gayland “Quincy” Snow and challenger F. Gregory Wilder

Gayland Snow’s statement:
I feel that we must improve our current waste water treatment facility, with the most cost effective measures to minimize suffering for the future. Other infrastructure needs are roads downtown and parks for the safety of our community as well as the tourism visiting our area. I also plan on working closely with city council, to continue community building, to promote visible business owners or businesses for the area for the next 3 years. F. Gregory Wilder’s statement:
At the top of my list of challenges facing us is the need to reform the wastewater treatment plant. I personally feel that I would rather spend our funding dollars to make the mandated upgrade and improvements to our plant, than to have equipment failure which will ultimately result in raw sewage into the Columbia River. It will also result in much higher costs due to fines and emergency repairs. I believe we can get a good job done and do it right.

My dedication to the community as your mayor for the past 16 years, as a council member for 10 years truly shows that I have the expertise, knowledge and integrity to fill the job. I am well versed in many of the needs of a municipality and am ready for the challenge. As your mayor for the betterment of our town and our economic growth.

Betty Brueske’s statement:
The primary challenge I believe a hospital commissioner facwill be making decisions that support high quality medical care for everyone while at the same time controlling costs to ensure the solvency of the medical facility.
I believe that this can be accomplished by increasing communications between medical staff, nurses and patients, increasing the effectiveness and efficiency of service delivery, while lobbying for cost-effective measures to lower the price of diagnostic tests and drugs.
Prior experience on the Hospital Board in the 1980s before I became an elected position, thirty-plus years living and working in the community to gain an understanding of the needs of those who seek primary care.
I have a bachelor’s degree in economics from the University of Washington, and I have spent my career working for financial institutions in a manner that would result in a well-run financial institution.
My past experience as a mental health professional, teacher and counselor have allowed me to gain experience in negotiating skills, gaining consensus, and problem solving, all important qualities for a successful Hospital Board Commissioner.
I would serve to the best of my ability.
I believe a position on the board is an undertaking to be taken seriously.
My concern and goal is to build a successful business operation.
No. 6. If I were elected I would serve on the Coulee Medical Center board to guarantee that the Board of Commissioners has the necessary knowledge of health care issues, and a positive approach to the management of CMC.
I have lived in the area for over thirty years and have been involved in the lives of people in need of assistance.
I grew up in the Coulee Dam area, graduated from Chelan High School and received my Bachelor of Science in Psychology.
I have a counseling license and have spent over twenty-two years working in the mental health field as a counselor and counselor-psychotherapist.
I have served on the Board of Directors for the Lenore Residential Center and have served as President of the Board.
I possess a bachelor’s degree in economics from the University of Washington, and I have spent my career working for financial institutions in the Pacific Northwest, primarily as a CFO or CEO. These I have the experience and knowledge to understand and analyze financial aspects of the hospital, as well as the challenges of maintaining a successful business operation.
Because the hospital is such an important part of the community, I believe a position on the board is an undertaking to be taken seriously.
I would serve to the best of my ability.

Diane Larson’s statement:
I am running for Commissioner Position No. 5 in Hospital District
No. 6. If I were elected I would serve on the Coulee Medical Center Board of Commissioners. My duties would be to review the business strategies as set out by management and make appropriate suggestions to refine the plan. As I see it, my responsibility would be to review the interests of the hospital staff and the community, as well as leading the organization in a manner that would result in a well-run and successful entity.

Runners shine in Oroville

Ray Yazzie leads the Raider boys team at Oroville.

Robert George came in 31st overall and the third for the team in 19.20. Brandon Desautel came in fourth for the team and 44th overall in 19.46, a season best for Desautel.

“Three second half turnovers led to making improvement against the district,” Darnold said. The Central Washington League will decide placements to the state competition.

The Raiders dropped their third game in a row last Friday when they lost to the Oroville Hornets 42-14.
