Commissioner: Golf course not closing

"It is not our intention to close the golf course in July," O. J. Scharbach said Friday at The Star. "I've heard this three or four times. I don't know who is starting that stuff."

The chairman of the Port District 7 commission said the golf course, which is being maintained this year with volunteer labor, is looking better than ever.

He said they could use more help with some clubhouse work, however, so the lone employee doesn't end up doing maintenance outside and missing sales inside.

New disc golf course installed

North Dam Park now sports a new disc golf course, where you can try your best to throw frisbees into a series of baskets.

The course, spearheaded by Joshua Rabe, was installed last weekend by Rabe and friends, with equipment purchased through sponsorships for each hole.

Burning banned in Lincoln district

Lincoln County Fire District 9, issued a ban on burning as of June 1, fire officials reported this week. Additional information can be received by calling 631-1542.

Donation accepted

Ted Piccolo, school board member and head baseball coach at Lake Roosevelt High School, made a donation of over $800 worth of equipment to that sports program. The school board accepted the gift at its meeting last week.

School enrollment steady

Student enrollment for the month of May was 609.46, according to a report to the Grand Coulee Dam School District board of directors. It is the second time this year that the average monthly attendance fell below the district's budget estimate. The other time was in September last year when the average hit 603.71. The budget estimate for the school year was 610. The overall average for this school year now stands at 618.69 fulltime equivalents.

Sixth-graders go to Gonzaga

Sixth-grade students from Grand Coulee Dam Middle School participated in the sixth annual science symposium held late in May at Gonzaga University. While there, students participated in the dissecting of bass and crawfish, heard a presentation on the human impact on the number of deer in the Keller Ferry area and heard a presentation by the superintendent of the Lake Roosevelt National National Recreation Area.

Cool cars coming to cruise

The Coulee Cruizers will hold their 29th annual "Best Rod Run by a Dam Site" at North Dam Park, Friday and Saturday, June 14 and 15. The program begins Friday evening with a "cruise in" at the Hometown Pizza parking lot from 5 to 7 p.m.

Seniors home from LA

The senior trip for Lake Roosevelt High School seniors ended last Tuesday, May 28, when some 30 students returned from Los Angeles and San Diego. They arrived home at 11:52 p.m. from Los Angeles.

Late filings for election reported

by Roger S. Lucas

A special three-day election filing period in Grant County turned up two candidates for Bob Ruppe's position 1 seat in the Electric City Council race.

Filing for that position were Birdie Hensley, a former member of the council, and Aaron Derr.

In other filings not reported, Jim Keene filed for a two-year unexpired term on Grant County's Port District 7. Keene was recently appointed to the position. And commission Chairman Oroville Scharbach filed to return to the board for another six-year term.

None of the three positions open for the Coulee Area Park & Recreation District turned up any interest. No one filed for a two-year unexpired term or for two four-year terms.

In Grand Coulee, no one filed for Councilmember Tim Alling's position 2 seat on that city council.

Fire guts Electric City home

by Roger S. Lucas

An Electric City man's home burned Tuesday, keeping firefighters working for hours on the stubborn blaze that started just after noon.

The residence of Michael Lowry, at 214 2nd Street, overlooks Banks Lake at the end of the street in a neighborhood of houses and trees surrounded by brush and grass.

Fire engines from Electric City, Grand Coulee, Coulee Dam and the Bureau of Reclamation, and ambulances from both Electric City and Grand Coulee were on hand.

The blaze, which quickly engulfed the residence, sent pillars of black smoke high into the sky.

By the time fire engines arrived, the fire was very hot and had consumed a large portion of the structure.

Neighbors quickly began watering the area around their houses, worried that sparks from the blaze might start more fires.

Kathy Ballard, who lives below Lowry, made the 911 call.

"I looked out my window and saw fire in Mike's kitchen window," Ballard stated. "While talking with the 911 operator, I could see Mike's dog and cat leaving the structure."

"Two boys that were working on an engine in the garage for Mike, Jimmy Francis and Joey Balzador, apparently went in the house and got Lowry out," she stated.

However, another report had firefighters breaking a basement window to pull Lowry out.

Electric City Fire Chief Bill Miley, who was still involved in fighting the fire at 5 p.m., said firefighters were punching holes in the roof in places to try to access some of the rooms, and there were still rooms they couldn't reach, so hot and stubborn was the blaze.

Miley said perhaps as many as 30 firefighters were working to put the fire out.

In mid-afternoon, with the fire still sending up smoke, city worker Jared Armstrong, who was seeing that firefighters got enough water supply, said it had been reported that the fire started after Lowry started up his stove and fell asleep, but Chief Miley said that was just speculation.

"When we are able to fully access the building and have time to talk with people, we will know a lot more," he said.

Grand Coulee Dam and partners receive national award

The Bureau of Reclamation's Pacific Northwest Region, along with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Chelan County Public Utility District, were honored April 23 at the 2013 National Hydropower Association annual conference in Washington, D.C.

The agencies received the Outstanding Stewards of America's Waters Award (OSAW) for Public Education for their collaborative educational program called the "D3 Geocache Challenge," a high-tech treasure hunt offered at Grand Coulee Dam, Chief Joseph Dam, and Rocky Reach Dam.

Geocaching uses GPS (global positioning system) devices or a smartphone to receive clues to search for hidden items and learn about clean, renewable energy in a fun way.

Upon completing the specific geocaches at Grand Coulee Dam, treasure hunters return to the Visitor Center to receive their prize, a piece of the overhead power lines that once carried electricity from the largest powerplant in the United States. To receive a distinguished D3 patch, visitors must also complete additional geocaches at Chief Joseph Dam and Rocky Reach Dam.

"This was truly a partnership project," said Lynne

Brougher, Grand Coulee Dam Public Affairs Officer. "Coordinating the program with the other dams was fun and it was a great opportunity for the participants to learn interesting facts about the dams and a great way to promote local tourism. It took a lot of teamwork. The staff members at the Grand Coulee Dam Visitor Center worked diligently to ensure the program succeeded by assisting visitors in their quest to complete the challenge."

Due to the success of the program in 2012, it is being expanded to 10 additional Northwest dams this summer through the Foundation for Water and Energy Education.

The Grand Coulee Dam Visitor Center is open daily from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. with extended hours during the summer season:

- May 25 - July 31: 8:30 a.m. - 11 p.m.
- August 1 - 31: 8:30 a.m. - 10:30 p.m.
- September 1 - 30: 8:30 a.m. - 9:30 p.m.

Geocache locations are accessible from dawn to dusk.

For more information about geocaching at Grand Coulee Dam, contact the Visitor Center at (509) 633-9265.

Roller derby scrimmage planned for July

A scrimmage featuring roller derby teams from around the region is planned for July 5 as a means of introducing the community to the sport, said Grand Coulee Derby Dames team leader Chick Norris, Derby Rayne-ger.

"Red, White and Bruise Scrimmage" is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the tennis courts at North Dam Park.

"We will have some vets there so we can have a couple advanced jams," Chick said, "just so the crowd can see the difference in play."

She suggested bringing lawn chairs and the whole family.

Teacher/coach, Proctor to retire

Public invited to reception

by Roger S. Lucas

Gordon Proctor will wrap up some 40 years as a teacher when the last school bell rings on June 12.

He arrived here in 1978, along with his wife Kathy, after teaching five years in Oregon, and completes 35 years of continuous service at Lake Roosevelt High School as a coach, health and physical education instructor. Kathy, after a short stint as a substitute teacher, has taught at Lake Roosevelt for the same period.

The community will have an opportunity to thank Proctor for all he has done for young people on June 12, when his peers have a special reception for him at the Ridge Riders Rodeo Grounds.

The reception will begin at 5:30 p.m. The public is invited.

The Proctors have three children, all graduates of Lake Roosevelt.

Shane, currently a professional bull rider, was world champion in 2011. Kaycee is a middle school teacher in Umatilla, Ore., and follows in her father's footsteps, coaching track.

Cody is a reporter for a television station in Great Falls, Mont. "Everything Gordon does is at a championship level," says Principal Brad Wilson. "He is a friend, mentor and a benefit to kids at the highest level."

In fact, Wilson has been so impressed with Proctor that he has nominated him for induction into the Washington State Track & Field Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

Wilson has worked with Proctor since coming to the district 11 years ago.

"Without a doubt, Gordon is the most accomplished head coach in the history of Lake Roosevelt High School," Wilson stated.

In Proctor's 30 years as head track coach he has led his team to the 1992 State A championship, five District 6 1-A championships, three state A top four finishes, 19 individual state champions, and 129 state placers.

The 1992 state championship team is the only one in the history of Lake Roosevelt.

New restaurant to open soon

by Roger S. Lucas

A new restaurant is about to open on the Midway. It will be the Grand Coulee Grill, identified by the new rock work on the face of the building, and a trio that has had experience in resort eateries.

Heading the group is Paul Kelley, with Annie Ives as an operating partner and general manager, and chef Chris Sebastian, who comes from a resort near Yellowstone Park.

Kelley says he has operated restaurants and bars in both the Seattle area and in California.

He said the menu will feature items from the $7 to $25 range.

The Grand Coulee Grill will have what the trio calls a "soft" opening in mid-June.

The rock, a shale-like material, comes from Plains, Mont., with David Schwartz doing the rock work.

"We have been getting a lot of interest from people who are fascinated by what we are doing," Sebastian said.

The restaurant has opened a window facing the sidewalk for walk-up service where people can take delivery of food right from the sidewalk. That's just temporary as considerable work is being done to the interior of the building. Kelley said the restaurant is considering delivery.

Sebastian said that they plan to build a wall separating the lounge from the restaurant with an entranceway at the back.

A large space on the south side of the building will be developed later in a way that compliments the restaurant, Sebastian said.

While the new grill plans a soft opening in June, the main dining room is scheduled for a July 1, opening date.

Sebastian said the restaurant will have a medium-price menu with unfrozen meats and fresh organic vegetables.

"We like clean and quality," Sebastian stated.

Right now Schwartz is finishing up the rock work. Schwartz comes from Montana and is here to do the rock work on the building. He works for a company owned by Kelley.

Tuesday, Kelley was putting in a new wooden floor.

He said the building was purchased a year ago, and work has been done on the four apartments on the second floor.

Sebastian, Kelley said, has established himself as a chef. And Ives comes from Birmingham, Ala., where she and her husband had started a business.

The building was purchased from Dennis Thomas, whose father long operated the Sage Inn restaurant there.

Sandpile saving money on school project

by Roger S. Lucas

Dump trucks are hauling about 1,400 cubic yards of sand from the Bureau of Reclamation's giant sandpile to the school construction site daily, according to officials.

Don't worry, the scheduled 22,000 cubic yards slated to be hauled from the sandpile won't hardly make a dent in one of Coulee Dam's most famous landmarks.

The dump trucks, three of them, are capable of making a trip about every 10 minutes or so.

Trucks haul eight yards per load, at a weight of about a ton a yard, and can make the haul after being loaded in about 10 minutes, one official stated.

The sand fill will enable the general contractor, Walker Construction, to raise the level of the K-12 school construction site some five feet.

Loads are dumped, pushed into place by a dozer, then watered and rolled with a giant roller, to pack the material down.

Each dump truck load of sand returns about $8 to the school district. The Bureau of Reclamation agreed to provide the sand to the contractor at $1 a yard so long as the money was returned to the school district in construction savings resulting in not having to bring material from farther away.

The sandy material is loaded from the back side of the huge pile by a loader and the trucks have about a three-block haul to the site.

The school board will get a change order to that effect at its next meeting, which will provide some $22,000 to the district.

If the contractor maintains its schedule of 1,400 cubic yards a day, it will take about 15 and a half days to complete the haul.

The haul was interrupted last Friday and Monday because the fill area was off grade. The pour on footings was scheduled for late this week, but now will be delayed until next week.

OPINION

Letters to the Editor

“Smaller” plant will cost $1 million more

The Star published a story on May 29th, 2013 with the headline “Town votes for smaller sewer plant project.” Nothing could be further from the truth... in fact the town council, with one “no” (Bob Poch), knowingly voted for a project that will cost more, considerably more, than the already expensive “repair” to the old plant. Do not be duped... the town council voted for the first “phase” of a project estimated to cost well over $6 million. The town’s engineer (Gray & Osborne) clearly defined the two “phases” and the requirements for the full project in the facility plan. That plan was adopted by the town and approved by the state. By taking this action, Coulee Dam will lock itself into the second phase, an aging plant, aging technology, and a very, very high (and growing) operational cost. The town council (with one exception) just made a decision to spend over a million dollars more than they were recently considering – and for what? To patch up and repair an already old (40 years old) and inefficient facility that will last about 20 more years. The town already spends over twice the expected amount to maintain and operate the existing plant and the proposed “phased” project will add even more to those costs. Let’s not lose sight of the fact that a new plant can be built for virtually the same amount (even the town’s engineer agrees with that claim) and will cost less than half to operate ... and it will last over 40 years! The town’s hell-bent approach will only add even more to our monthly sewer charges. On the other hand, a new regional facility shared with Elmer City will reduce our monthly rates — not increase them! Thank you and be well...

Coming out from under the bus

I asked “our” mayor and “our” city council to enforce the city ordinances early in 2010, and then wholeheartedly in 2012, not write new laws, just enforce the ones that are already written. They assured me they couldn’t, or wouldn’t, or at least didn’t know how to enforce them? Didn’t make sense to me. I even suggested contacting Coulee Dam and getting their input on how they made such wonderful improvements to their town. Seemed like that was out of the question, too. And now they are asking for advice; hip, hip, hooray?

I was made to feel like I should be ashamed because my place looks so nice, and that I shouldn’t expect others to live up to my expectations. I never once asked for that, nor do I expect anyone to live up to my expectations, but I did expect others to live up to the expectations of “our” town’s ordinances! Although I am very proud of how my place looks, and am complimented on it all the time. I asked for a clean neighborhood (which it wasn’t), and had hoped eventually, a clean town. It was obviously too much to ask for.

Thanks to the city council and the mayor and their lack of following through with the enforcements of the ordinances, I was thrown under the bus, and the blame that was laid on me angered a lot of the people in this neighborhood, and most are still angry. I just ignore and go on with my own life. I’ve been lied about, had false police reports filed against me, I have been given numerous hand gestures (some of which regrettably I’ve returned) snickered at, made to feel unsafe if I didn’t stay on my own side of the street, all because I asked that this neighborhood get cleaned up. Shame on me!

I was told that I called the people in this neighborhood ghetto rats; never did! Have been told that I am prejudiced, which again I’m not! Like I have always said, scum comes in many colors, and scum is scum, and most people just recognize it for what it is. People that “really” know me, know that is further from the truth. I did say that this neighborhood looked like a ghetto, which it did, and in some places still does! That was and is no lie, just open your eyes and look! I have learned to consider the mouths that these statements have come from, and these same mouths LIE! But I just consider the source. I have been okay when any of these people wanted to use me for one thing or another. But I have learned my lesson well on that one, and it won’t happen again.

The improvements in this neighborhood have been many. Some are just a temporary guise; seen it too many times not to recognize that. Some I’m hoping are permanent, but the sincere improvements that have been made are wonderful.

There has been a huge junk removal campaign going on, selling of derelict vehicles or at least moving to sites else where, cleaning up some properties (that needed it badly). Making the park that was created to be a park?, looking like a park again instead of a used car lot, or dumping grounds for derelict vehicles, and a night time meeting place. There’s been a remarkable reduction in traffic, both foot and vehicle(s), another blessing, and one I hope gets better and better! But I understand it’s just because one of the main culprits to this neighborhood looking like it has, is going to be moving to another section of our state. Wish somehow we could see the before and after of that neighborhood. All I can say is: Good-bye!

I am thankful that this neighborhood has improved, and hope that the improvements will keep coming. But on the other hand I feel bad where this next landing spot will be and what it will look like, and become in a short period of time. But that will be that town’s job to see that it doesn’t happen. Doesn’t anyone ever realize that once you allow mess to take over, it spreads like cancer and destroys everything around it. Look at places like Spokane; you constantly hear that they are taking back their neighborhoods. My question is “Why was it allowed to be taken away in the first place? I see a chance of this neighborhood looking like the proud place people would like to live in, and raise their kids, not counting their blessing that they don’t have to live here. I would and do hope that the improvements that have been made “remain” and that more improvements are yet to come to “our” neighborhoods, and “our” town. And I also want to believe that the city will follow through with this one! You have much work ahead of you!

On teaching elementary math

“How to teach math better”, by George K. Brown, math teacher at Lewis & Clark High School (Spokesman Review 6-2-13), states that “children should arrive at high school fluent in basic arithmetic and some simple algebra, etc.”

A parent told me that her son was flunking math and refusing to do homework or paying attention in class. So I asked the principal what the school does if the student gets an F grade at the end of the year. I was told that the student simply goes on to the next grade.

Conceivably, a student can flunk math in grades 6-7-8 and graduate from elementary school to become a freshman at high school with never learning to add, subtract, multiply or divide. The grade school simply passes the problem on to the HS!

How is this student ever to graduate from HS if new requirements for a HS diploma require a year of algebra and geometry? Don’t you think that Mr. Brown’s recommendation should at least be considered? If not, some things in Washington’s schools need changing, and teacher’s suggestions need be implemented.

Class of 2013 30 Year Reunion — It Could Happen

Hello, my name is Emily Williams, host of Entertainment Tonight, and we are here today at the social event of the decade. It’s Lake Roosevelt High School’s class of 2013 30-year reunion, possibly the greatest class in the history of high school graduations. You will find out why because I am outside fighting the crowd that has gathered here at this red carpet event, and, oh my, here comes the first car now. It’s a long white limo and exiting the car is Abby and Libby Williams.

Look at them, all smiles and waves to the crowd. Abby and Libby after HS decided they wanted to give back to the less fortunate, and they went out into poor countries all over the world, setting up clinics and schools. While on one of their missions they stumbled upon the Inca lost city of gold. They gave half of their fortune away to those who needed it and retired from the mission field at the age of 33. They have been living the good life ever since.

Oh, and now getting out of his camo hummer is Orrin Gross. Hold on a second — oh, and he has all his kids with him too, 13 boys all with camo tuxes and carrying what looks like gold spittoons. Orrin made his fortune in knives he developed by accident. It’s a knife that will never go dull, and it became the most coveted knife in the world — called A Gross Cutter.

He discovered the technique one day while hunting coyotes in Montana. He slipped and fell down into an old mine shaft. His family was looking for him for six days. When they found him he was sitting there making knives out of the new metal he had found.

Now here comes Hillary Carriere, the current dean of students at UW. After not being accepted into UW she worked hard and become one of the leading doctors in her field. After building her own school called the Hillbillary School for the Redneck Impaired. She accepted the job at UW and has become the highest paid dean in the world.

Now stepping out of his Duck Dynasty Rolls Royce is Tyler Hartbarger. Wow, look at that beard; it’s tied around his waist for a belt. Tyler moved down south after HS and found the love of his life and then married one of Duck Dynasty president’s daughters. He then became the most popular character on the TV show after he beat Cy in a squirrel eating contest.

Now coming down the carpet are the three hosts of the popular daytime talk show “Shy is Sexy.” It’s Rickyna Sam, Amanda Palmer and Ashley Lezard. The crowd is going bananas with the arrival of these three. They have had the top rated show for 15 years now and still have not said a word on air, but still the stars flock to their show and spill their guts to the world.

Here come two more hot celebrities, Jennifer Gross and Sierra Stallone. After HS these two become besties again and go to Hollywood to get into the business. They got their big break when Sierra started dating Sylvester Stallone’s youngest son and then went on to marry. The two girls then starred in many sports movies, being cheerleaders, and then got their own show called Cheer Camp Survival. In the first episode Jennifer married Randy; it was the highest rated show of all time.

Well the festivities are about to start inside, so let’s hop in there where we will have a performance by Grammy winner Lyric Witten. We will also have winners from The Voice singing their duet “Raider Love,” Skye Gooler and Johnny McCraige. We will also have straight from Las Vegas, illusionist and comedy artist Justus DeWinkler, who will try and make the Grand Coulee Dam disappear. We will also have an appearance by our current president of the United States and by the richest man in the world Andrew McClure; the first female to live on Mars, Hailey Chaney; world renowned fashion designer Charlie Knight and dare devil stuntman Jared Holt, and much much more. Tune in next week as we continue this 30-year reunion.

Jess, shut up!

509.633.3090 ~ Corner of Spokane and Federal Way, Grand Coulee

learned that the man had been in violation of his release and he was arrested and taken to Grant County Jail.

- A man from Aloha, Ore., attracted an officer when he was passed out in front of city hall. He told the officer that he had received a ride from Spokane and that he was on his way to Seattle. The officer secured a bus schedule for the man and told him how to get to Ephrata. Later the officer found that the man was still on the lawn at city hall and told him to move on or he would be arrested for trespassing.

- Police followed up on a barking dog issue on Stevens Street in Electric City and found a pit bull tethered to a post in the front yard with no water or shelter. The neighbor had complained that the dog barked and it caused other dogs in the neighborhood to bark.

5/29 - Police checked on a suspicious person call from Stevens Street in Electric City. A woman, who had a suitcase, told police that she had had an argument with her husband and was just trying to get out of the rain until it was time for the bus so she could go to Spokane.

- An officer noticed that a manhole cover was off on "A" Street and replaced it.

5/30 - Police stopped a pickup on Midway when the officer noticed that the driver and passenger were not wearing their seatbelts. They told the officer that they couldn't wear their seatbelts because there was a blanket on the seat. Both received citations for that and the driver had an added problem because he didn't have insurance.

6/1 - A man was stopped at Main and Federal Avenue when the officer noticed that he wasn't wearing his seatbelt. The officer learned that his license was suspended and that he had a warrant out for his arrest. He was taken to Grant County Jail.

- What was reported as a domestic violence incident on Yakima Street turned out to be a group of young people playing hide and seek.

6/2 - An Omak woman was cited for driving under the influence after an officer observed her weaving in her lane of traffic and going well under the speed limit. She acknowledged that she had been drinking and when the car was searched, a smoking pipe with marijuana residue was found. The car was towed.

- A Marysville man had driven on the dirt road near the 230 Kv switch yard and was stopped by an officer. He told the officer that he thought the road led to the canal where he intended to fish. He was told he was on private Bureau of Reclamation property and promptly left.

Coulee Dam Police

5/28 - A woman was stopped because the officer knew she was wanted on a warrant from Grant County. She was taken to Grant County Jail.

5/29 - Local police and four tribal officers responded to a report that a man was assaulting his girlfriend at a residence on Tulip Street. The Coulee Dam officer advised tribal police that the man being sought often hid in the attic. After he was coaxed out of the attic, he was arrested.

- A man was found unconscious in a restroom stall at Mason City Park. He told officers that he thought he had had a seizure. He was taken by ambulance to Coulee Medical Center.

- Police checked on a complaint that a man was sleeping between generators near the bowling alley. An officer advised the man that he couldn't sleep there. He requested a ride north of town and police gave him one.

- Police responded to an alarm at the licensing office in city hall and couldn't find anything wrong.

5/30 - Police responded to two false alarms at the licensing office in city hall.

5/31 - Police were called to Central Drive where a man said a woman was kicking cement blocks out from underneath his fence so she could pet his dog. He had asked her not to do that. Police told the woman not to continue to kick the cement blocks from under his fence.

6/2 - Police advised five residents or owners of property that they were in violation of the town's nuisance ordinance. The notices went to two on Holly, one on Pine, one on Central Drive and one on Civic Way.

Accepting donations
The Zion Lutheran Church will be holding its annual yard sale June 15. This year's proceeds will go to help the global initiative started by the UN to end malaria by 2015. Money is being raised to purchase mosquito nets, which are a cheap but effective method of preventing the spread of malaria. For those who have items they would like to donate for the upcoming sale, please contact Arlyce Goetz at 633-9225.

Thanks

The family of Shirley Nolan would like to thank everyone for their cards, caring thoughts and words of kindness during Shirley's recent passing. We would, also, like to especially thank Dr. Chaffee for his care and genuine concern. You are the best. We would also like to thank Karie Schuler, Bobbie Jo Garcia and the entire staff of Long Term Care. You all took such good care of her.

Words really can't express how grateful our family is, so we will just say "thank you so very much" for all you did for our mom, grandma, great grandma. You are all truly special people.

Thank you again Rich & Judy McGuire Tera, Jonah, Hunter, & Tanner Whitelaw Charay, Brad, Kenzie & Kylie Bourne Kasey, Caleb & Cheyenne Nolan

Thank you - Grand Coulee Fire and Police Departments!
Robert for your immediate help. Especially Rick and of course Diane for picking me up, a nice ride! Your response is treasured and appreciated.

Coulee Community Emergency Room staff...I could not have asked for more (sorry I don't know your names), I was kinda under the weather.

Thanks again. Gene Palanuk & Family
