As legislators argue, school budgets are guesswork

Nespelem will propose $4.7 million budget, maybe

by Scott Hunter

Taking their best guess, Nespelem School District set up a tentative plan to spend $4.7 million to run the school in the next school year, give or take $525,000.

Financial officer Tanya Bunting said they won't know exactly what money will come in until the state Legislature passes a budget. The $525,000 will depend on what formula the Legislature comes up with to fully fund public education, a state Supreme Court requirement under the McCleary decision.

That process is hung up and threatening a state government shutdown by Friday if Democrats and Republicans can't come to an agreement.

"We figure that we have about three months of reserve in order to pay our bills and meet payroll," said Rich Stewart Monday night during his last school board meeting as superintendent at Nespelem.

With a government shut-down looming, Stewart said, schools should not plan to get money right away from the state, even after a state budget passes.

"School districts are going to be on the hook after June 30," he said.

The school board scheduled a budget hearing for July 17 at 5:30 p.m., hoping to present a more certain budget by that date.

State Representative Cary Condotta, who represents the 12th District, tried sounding optimistic in an email to constituents Friday about coming to a solution by the end of the third legislative session this year, which started Thursday.

"Progress is being made, but given the extensive amount of detail involved, it is a difficult process," Condotta said. "I remain positive that we will reach a solution for the education funding plan and the operating budget by the end of the month."

Stewart didn't sound so hopeful.

"It's the same group of people who've been working (on it) for over a year," Stewart said, "and they're still far apart, according to people that are more inside the situation than we are."

Preschool will be moved to Grand Coulee site

by Roger S. Lucas

The Grand Coulee Dam School District's preschool will move to the old middle school this fall, following a decision made at the school board meeting Monday night.

"The elementary school needs the classroom for its growing early grades," according to Superintendent Paul Turner, who stated his concerns last Thursday.

Earlier plans had called for the preschool to be moved to the former science classroom at the old high school, but costs to remodel the space had made this impossible, Turner said. Moving to the former middle school in Grand Coulee will save the district thousands of dollars of renovation, Turner explained.

Turner, who was on vacation Monday, said last week that the preschool would be moved to the annex area at the former middle school, a space that won't need a major overhaul. The school board concurred Monday night.

The space occupied by the preschool this past school year at Lake Roosevelt Elementary will

School board hears retired response to employee surveys

by Roger S. Lucas

Two retired school employees, one a janitor and the other a math teacher, gave the Grand Coulee Dam School District board Monday a taste of how they feel about the recent results of surveys that asked about discipline in the schools.

Ray Wells, a retired janitor, spoke at length on issues he had while employed at the school.

Wells came loaded with hundreds of documents from his experience of over 15 years at the school district.

He told the board that he had made several complaints to the administration at the elementary school on conditions and incidents in the restrooms over the years but not once had anyone responded to his concerns.

He showed the school board members stacks of complaints that he had offered to authorities with no response.

Wells said he thought that the restrooms needed a monitor because of the kinds of things that are occurring there. He cited incidents of feces on the floor and a myriad of other such incidents.

"I cleaned things up and made comments to the administration, but never had anyone come to me and ask about my complaints," Wells stated.

Retired math teacher Frank Ayers offered a different approach.

He referred to the survey results that described how unhappy paraprofessionals and teachers were about the support they feel they have in the discipline area.

"We have some real resources in a large number of veteran teachers who have recently retired here, some with 25-30 years experience," Ayres stated. "Instead of hiring some outsider to come here to tell paraprofessionals and teachers what is wrong, we should pay some of our veteran retired employees to talk about what is right, and what is needed."

School board Chair Joette Barry asked each if he would sit down with district officials and continue the conversation. Both said they would.

Nordine files for Electric City council seat

by Roger S. Lucas

Carol Nordine filed her intent to run for a seat on the Electric City Council during a special three-day filing period last week.

Nordine filed for Position 4 on the council currently held by Jeremy Miller, who did not file because, he told council members, he might move. Miller has held the position for only a few weeks and was selected by the council to fill the vacancy when Brad Parrish resigned after his wife took the position as deputy clerk.

The filing period was June 19-21. Nordine was the lone person filing for the seat.

If Miller stays until his current position ends, then Nordine would become a member of the council in January.

Nordine said over the weekend that she was prompted to file for the council seat because she wanted to see the parks and trail development through.

"I want to be involved in the city's revitalization project," Nordine said. "People have heard it talked about for a long time and are impatient. It is about to start, and when it does it will go fast."

She earlier served on the council for about a year when she filled out a position that had been vacated.

Nordine was narrowly defeated by Birdie Hensley, who currently is on the council.

Nordine's son, John Nordine II, is currently the mayor of Electric City.

She was seated on the council in June 2015 after Mayor Nordine broke a tie vote to appoint her to an empty seat.

Wednesday market opens

by Roger S. Lucas

The Wednesday Market began last week and will continue on Wednesdays through Sept. 13.

Chamber of commerce Executive Director Peggy Nevsimal said a number of exhibitors have signed up for the entire summer.

The market runs from 4-8 p.m. each Wednesday at North Dam Park.

Nevsimal said those who have registered for the entire summer will have produce, other food items, decorated gourds, baked goods, children's items and some surprises along the way.

This is the first year that the market has been held on Wednesdays.

Exhibitors can show their products for a $5 fee each week.

The Grand Coulee Dam Area Chamber of Commerce is the sponsoring organization for the market.

People selling art welded from scraps or fashioned from gourds, hot dogs, knitted goods, baked goods and items from their gardens were spread out beneath the shade at North Dam Park last week.

Most said the evening had been fairly slow but expected it to be more popular as people learn where the new market is.

Nevsimal said the chamber has ordered a vertical flag banner to help highlight it from the highway.

Geologist Bjornstad gives guided hike

by Jacob Wagner

Geologist Bruce Bjornstad came to Dry Falls-Sun Lakes State Park June 17 to give a guided tour of the Caribou Trail to a dog and about 10 human hikers who were local, from the Seattle area, and from as far away as New England.

The approximately 90-minute guided hike started with Bjornstad showing maps of the area depicting what things were like during the Missoula Floods. He showed how a large ice dam used to be where the Grand Coulee Dam is now, and how that had diverted the Columbia River through the Grand Coulee, past Steamboat Rock, and on down the upper and lower Grand Coulee. When the ice dam melted, the Columbia took on its current course.

Bjornstad explained the timescale of the coulees being carved, explaining what a unique feature they are on the planet Earth, the closest thing similar being the landscapes of the planet Mars.

Hiking to huge potholes resembling craters above Deep Lake, Bjornstad explained that they were formed by whirlpools or eddies in the waters that had flooded the region, and simply dug the rocks out of the ground and sent them flying with the sheer force of the current.

"These are some of the best potholes in the world," Bjornstad said. "There's dozens of them up there. A lot of times you won't see them until you're right up next to them within a few feet, when all of the sudden the ground will disappear. They can be hundreds of feet deep and hundreds of feet wide."

Throughout the hike, Bjornstad answered questions and explained geological features of the region.

A video series Bjornstad produces called Floodscapes is available to view on YouTube. The videos show stunning aerial footage shot with a drone of landscapes shaped by the Missoula Floods, including the Deep Lake Potholes.

Whooping cough confirmed in Grant County

by Roger S. Lucas

Grant County Health District officials say there are three confirmed, and possibly more cases of whooping cough in the Ephrata area.

Three cases have been confirmed and one additional probable case, with additional cases pending, health officials announced.

Whooping cough (pertussis) is highly contagious, and in an effort to control the outbreak of the disease, county health officials have recommended antibiotics for a defined number of individuals who have come into close contact with ill individuals.

Health officials stated that early symptoms include a runny nose, low-grade fever, occasional mild occasional cough, and a pause in breathing by babies.

Later symptoms include a long series of coughs, rapid coughs followed by a "whoop" sound and vomiting during a coughing spell, and turning blue as a result of coughing with exhaustion following.

Whooping cough is highly contagious and can be spread by coughing and sneezing.

Symptoms of whooping cough usually develop within five to 10 days, but can show up much later.

For additional information the public may call Heather Massart, public information office for the health district, (509) 766-7960, ext.16.

The old middle school will be the new location of the district's preschool.

be taken by a class of lower-grade students.

At the same time Monday night, the school board voted to allow Turner to hire an elementary teacher if the state Legislature funds smaller classroom sizes for the lower grades to 17 students.

This past year the district had 32 preschool students in three different sections. One section had 11 preschoolers, another had eight and the third had 13, all taught by the same teacher.

Police warn: know fireworks restrictions

by Scott Hunter

The city of Grand Coulee restricts the use of legal, personal fireworks to a single venue: off the top of North Dam.

But even there, local police would like you to know, they still have to comply with state law. And that lets out any mortar-style fireworks to those under the size of a golf ball.

Firecrackers are illegal, as are bottle rockets, or any other missiles or rockets and other fireworks lacking the proper state seal.

Officer Gary Moore said last week that he'd rather not spoil anyone's fun, but he will if he discovers illegal fireworks.

Moore will be on duty when local folks are lighting up the sky from North Dam on the Fourth of July. That's where the city has determined is the safest place, from a fire danger perspective, to allow fireworks.

But Moore said problems have occurred there in the past, sometimes when someone brings fireworks from across the state, thinking they can set them off there.

The city council passed a fireworks ordinance in May and specifically named North Dam as the place to light consumer fireworks, no where else.

They're legal to set off on July 4 from 9 a.m. to 11:59 p.m.

They are also legal on New Year's Eve after 8 p.m. until 12:30 a.m.

You can be fined up to $1,000 for each violation.

Moore cautioned that fireworks buyers should make sure what they are buying is legal.

All fireworks are illegal in the town of Coulee Dam. Legal fireworks are not banned in Electric City.

Moore noted that fireworks sold on the Colville Reservation and other reservations are legal only in designated places on those reservations.

It's been legal to sell fireworks on the Colville Reservation since June 19, but the only legal areas to set them off are Round Lake near Inchelium, and at Eastside Park in Omak.

ATTENTION BOATERS!

If you didn't registered your boat for the 2016-2017 year, you may not have received the letter from DOL.

NEW FEDERAL STANDARDS FOR HULL IDENTIFICATION NUMBER (HIN) FOR VESSELS

LINCOLN COUNTY, April 24, 2017 - The United States Coast Guard is beginning to enforce a new federal standard that may require about 19,000 Washington vessel owners to change the Hull Identification Number (HIN) on their vessels. The HIN is a unique identifier for each vessel.

How do I know if the Hull Identification Number needs to be replaced? The vast majority of vessels registered in Washington have HIN numbers that comply with the new Coast Guard standards. If your vessel's HIN does not comply with the new standard, the Washington Department of Licensing (DOL) already sent you a letter in late March with instructions. Individuals who received this notification will not be able to register, renew or title a vessel until the HIN is updated. A vessel with a noncompliant HIN cannot be renewed online. Vessel owners who were not notified by mail can renew normally.

How do I get a new HIN? If the HIN on your vessel does not conform to the new federal standards, you must visit a Vehicle Licensing Office. The office will issue you a new Certificate of Ownership and generate a HIN that is compliant with the standards. There are no titling fees assessed if the title transaction is due solely to issuing a compliant HIN.

What if my HIN doesn't match the letter from DOL? Bring a photo or rubbing of the current HIN with you to the Vehicle Licensing Office. If the current HIN does not match the vessel record in DOL files, the record will be updated.

What do I need to do with my boat once I have a new HIN? Vessel owners required to update their HIN numbers already have received instructions about how to comply with the new Coast Guard requirements. Under these new requirements, two identical HINs must be permanently affixed to a vessel with a nonconforming HIN. It is recommended that the original HIN not be removed, covered-up or otherwise defaced but that the assigned HIN should be applied adjacent to the original HIN. You must use methods (such as decals, engraved plates, embossing) that permanently fix the HIN to the vessel.

SAVE YOURSELF A TRIP and bring your title, photo or rubbing of your current HIN to us.

OPINION

Letters from Our Readers

Re: "Proposed federal budget cuts would take money from public to give to private schools"

I was surprised to see such a biased article on the front page of the paper on June 21, 2017. The article titled, "Proposed federal budget cuts would take money from public to give to private schools," should have been in the opinion section.

Rather than just reporting on the proposed budget and giving the details, the author wrote it with an obvious left wing slant. The author mentions something about jeopardizing the separation of church and state. First of all, this is mentioned nowhere in the Constitution. The 1st Amendment prohibits Congress from making a law respecting an establishment of religion, and it prohibits them from prohibiting our free exercise of religion.

A voucher system would give more choice back to parents regarding their children's education. Allowing a parent to send their children to a religious private school is one example of the free exercise of religion. Don't forget that the public school system is funded by our tax money. Shouldn't we have more say in where our children go to school?

The article quotes Elise Aguilar as saying, "public funds should be for public schools." A better statement would be public funds should be for the use of the public. This is reflected by who we elect to make policy.

The article also mentions that some schools may discriminate against LGBTQ students. Is this the only group of concern when it comes to discrimination? I guess other groups don't matter, especially if they have a different opinion than those who agree with this article. There is a weak attempt to demonize all private and charter schools by mentioning one voucher school that failed to teach students how to read (no other facts were given on this). Most private and charter schools are held to rigorous accreditation standards and outperform many public schools.

The Chicago Tribune published an article referencing an in-depth examination by the Center for Research on Education Outcomes at Stanford on charter school performance in Chicago. The Tribune stated the following: "The report shows greater learning gains in both reading and math for elementary charter school students compared to their counterparts in traditional public schools. The effects of the charter public schools on student performance is even more significant for low income and minority students, especially African-American and Latino students who have been historically underserved."

According to an article on how U.S. students compare with their peers around the world, written by the Pew Research Center on February 15, 2017, "Recently released data from international math and science assessments indicate that U.S. students continue to rank around the middle of the pack, and behind many other advanced industrial nations."

With the amount of tax money spent on education, we should be ahead of all nations. Obviously it is not a matter of spending more money. We should look at where the money goes, along with giving parents more choices.

The funny thing is that the Department of Education is not mentioned in the Constitution; therefore education should fall under the 10th Amendment, which puts it in the hands of the individual states. Hopefully this letter makes it to the opinion page, which is where the front page article from last week should have been placed.

Specific questions for candidates and an idea

I recently asked local candidates to tell us about their candidacy. After polling local folks and hearing from more than a few folks on social media, it seems there are specific questions that we'd like to pose to the candidates. These are two of the more than 20 that I received. I will share a few as often as allowed. I have no favor towards any candidate in this election, no dog in the fight. I would just like to see an election that actually serves our community and results in a positive outcome.

1) Cole & Douglas Park, West Coulee Dam: Both parks have experienced an uptick of vandalism, drug debris (needles included), and people under the influence in the park. The problem has become so disturbing to the young families in our community that many children are now not allowed in our parks. What are your thoughts on eradicating this problem?

2) Young families are desperate for daycare in the area. It would seem that the town could offer some sort of scholarship and perhaps a small grant for supplies to get more of them going. The daycares that are currently licensed could receive the same amount of money to bolster their operation. Would you be willing, as a councilmember, to champion this cause and how would you accomplish it?

Now on to an idea. I want to say first of all that there will be those who say that "This can't be done because of RCW blah, blah, blah or regulation #XYZ" or some other obstruction. Yes it can. There is not one piece of paper that another one cannot fix. So here's the idea:

We have EIGHT people who have lined up to run for office in our town. Eight people who have passion and desire to serve our community! Why in the world would we not include them all in our council? I propose that we elect our officials — the folks who will cast the votes — and let the remainder, those who ran but didn't win, be on council as alternates to the position they ran for. They would not have a vote but would have:

1) Access to all the same information that the council members have. Transparency gets a huge boost right there. There is also never again "no quorum" and every meeting, every issue keeps moving. An alternate would be allowed to cast a vote when serving in the place of an absent council member.

2) The right to question and report to the council on issues before the council.

3) Serves as on-the-job training for our future council members.

4) Alternates could also serve as liaison to committees and boards.

We're all aware how hard it is to get people involved in our local government. This one doesn't like that one, hard feelings, old beefs. It's time to let that go. It hasn't served us in decades. We should recognize that we have a wealth of desire and passion and we should be encouraging every single person interested.

Why in the world would these Great People be considered losers and not be included? Doesn't make sense. Again, I'm sure you crossers of t's and dotters of i's will say that it can't be done. But I think it could be and that it should be discussed. I ask the candidates, what do you think of this idea?

Students' "community service" shouldn't sound like a punishment

I was very thankful to be asked to sit in on the LRHS Senior Oral Boards! I didn't realize how much of a rewarding experience this was going to be.

One thing I promised to address was the community service requirement. While most didn't have a problem doing it, it was the wording that caused hard feelings. In a young person's eyes, you see "community service" and that makes it look like it's connected to doing something wrong. I heard, "When you're on probation or in trouble, you get community service," and I completely agree!

I submitted a letter to the school board asking for this to be changed from Community Service to "Community Contribution." Using Community Contribution makes it sound like you're giving back to your community, not that you're in trouble and HAVE to do free work as punishment.

I'm still waiting for a reply, but just something I wanted to share and hopefully get some support on.

Thank you!

You're invited to meet the Syilx on the fourth

The Okanagan Indians (Syilx People) of our traditional territories will come from Osoyoos, B.C., the N'Kmp campgrounds and paddle to the Oroville Veterans Park on July 4th. It will be the 18th year we have been doing this and a meal will be awaiting the paddlers and guests. You are invited to come and meet the Syilx People and learn more of our custom and culture, ask questions!

The people who are helping and organizing the event annually would love to see you there. The benefit to the paddlers will be their increase of self-esteem, enhancement of their spiritual growth, to participate in a community event that honors your People, and to remind the communities of our presence here in the valley we call home.

This July 4th celebrates centuries of our existence of the Okanagan People and to remind everyone we are not defined by northern or southern, but by the fact that we are (skaluc) Human Beings, the Okanagan People.

The chairs of the committees are Chief Clarence Louie, Osoyoos

Indian Band (250) 498-3444, and Chief Chad Eneas, Penticton Indian Band (250) 493-0048. If you want to participate contact the paddlers, Herman Edwards (250) 499-1374 or Bruce Manuel (250) 488-5807.

We hope to see you there; have a safe and enjoyable holiday.

Generations of service

I recently took part in some training, and they compared the four generations that are currently in the workforce: Traditionalists, Baby Boomers, Generation X and Millennials, all working together and the struggles with communication that occur daily. It is a lot to think about when you compare the different generations and you start to realize just why there is a communication blockade.

"We are going to have a meeting." That phrase alone can mean differences that reflect night and day when an employee hears it and prepares for what might happen. The Traditionalist will expect a face-to-face conversation in a board room, with others taking notes and responding when called upon. This meeting would not be surprising if it took two to four hours to complete.

The Baby Boomer, going to the same meeting, more than likely would take notes but expect only those directly involved to be present, and maybe the boss would be phoning in his requests from home or vacation.

Gen X will only attend for about an hour. They will have laptop in hand and be multi-tasking while the meeting goes on. They themselves may be at home during the meeting but the conference call works just fine for them.

The Millennial will be on the phone the entire time, texting and taking notes. They will give you about 15 minutes of their time but they feel this meeting is a waste of time and want to get back to work. Just send me the notes of the meeting later via my email.

These four generations are currently working together. Yes, there are a just a few Traditionalists out there still, and the Baby Boomers are about to cash in as a mass exodus is about to take place. Gen X is about to take over, but they have thought they were in charge the whole time anyway. The Millennials are already looking for the next place to wander to and start over again. This is where the future lies. With the youngest generation, they just want to get in, get the job done and get off to the next adventure. The Millennials want to be the best but have a hard time getting the job done to get there. And here we go.

There was a time when we learned from the Traditionalist and the Baby Boomer, but somewhere along the line technology took over and we started to believe we did not need them if we had the internet and training videos. But something was lost in the transition: conversation and service.

Ask any grandma, and they will tell you that they have a hard time having a conversation with their grandkids, who seem distracted, whose minds seem displaced from the current situation. It is more than just the 50-plus years between them. There is a communication gap, and that gap is a learned behavior.

We see it mostly in the community service going on around us. Ever notice that the same people seem to be doing all the community service? Yes, the schools are trying, making it a graduation requirement to give back to your community; but it was not a requirement in the past; it was how things got done. If you consider the history of our area, it is chock full of patriarchs and matriarchs who volunteered time to build these towns from the dust up — schools, businesses and utilities, mostly built over time by volunteers and willing neighbors who just wanted to make life better for others around them.

We still see that from time to time today, but it is a dying trait and being phased out just like the Traditionalists and the Baby Boomers, but there must be a conversation had with the other two generations and the new fifth generation that is just about here, Generation Z. (I think the Z stands for Zombie.) We need to start showing them what loyalty and community service looks like, what working for the goal looks like, and what working together really is. For the good of us all.

shut up!

Obituaries

Robert L. Boucher

Robert L. Boucher, former Grand Coulee Dam area resident, passed away on Sunday, June 25, 2017. Services will be held at the Grand Coulee Church of the Nazarene on Friday, June 30th at 11 a.m.

A complete obituary will be in next week's Star.

Beverly B "Bev" Davis

Beverly B "Bev" Davis, 68, beloved life-long resident of Nespelem, Washington, and proud member of the Colville Confederated Tribes, went on to join her elders Sunday evening, June 18, 2017, from Grand Coulee, Washington.

Born Wednesday, February 9, 1949, in Nespelem, to Mose and Agnes Andrews-Davis, Bev graduated with the class of 1967 from Coulee Dam High School "Go Beavers" and then went on to college. Bev belonged to "Seven Drums" and enjoyed her work as a medical secretary, then as a dental secretary with Indian Health Services in Nespelem, retiring in December of 2016, after 42 years of serving the needs of her community.

To say that Bev was a sports fan would be an understatement! She was an avid "12th Man," faithfully following her Seahawks from pre-season through post-season play. Bev followed every Seattle Mariners game she could, watched U.F.C. and enjoyed a good basketball matchup...especially when "THE ZAGS" were winning! When not cheering her team and arguing with the refs, Bev relaxed by competing with the slot machines, playing bingo, or just settling down in her favorite chair with a good Danielle Steele mystery, her beloved Rottweiler, "Cleo," close by.

Predeceased by both of her parents and several aunts and uncles, Bev's legacy lives on through the family whom she loved dearly, including children: Stanford Lee Spencer (Carla), Lisa Sue Spencer (Faran Sohappy) and Benjamin Davis Spencer; grandchildren: Justine Al-fadil (Yassine), Jayde Spencer, Mariah Spencer, Corvin Dick and Sidney Dick; brother, Markus Davis Sr.; sisters: Darlene Saxon, Vernita M. Davis, Dee Anne Haynes (Rodney Sr.), Renee Davis and Patricia K. Davis; aunt, Marie Piatote; uncle Harrison Davis, as well as numerous nephews and nieces.

Funeral Services were held Wednesday, June 21, 2017, at Nespelem Community Center, and burial followed at the Chief Joseph Cemetery in Nespelem.

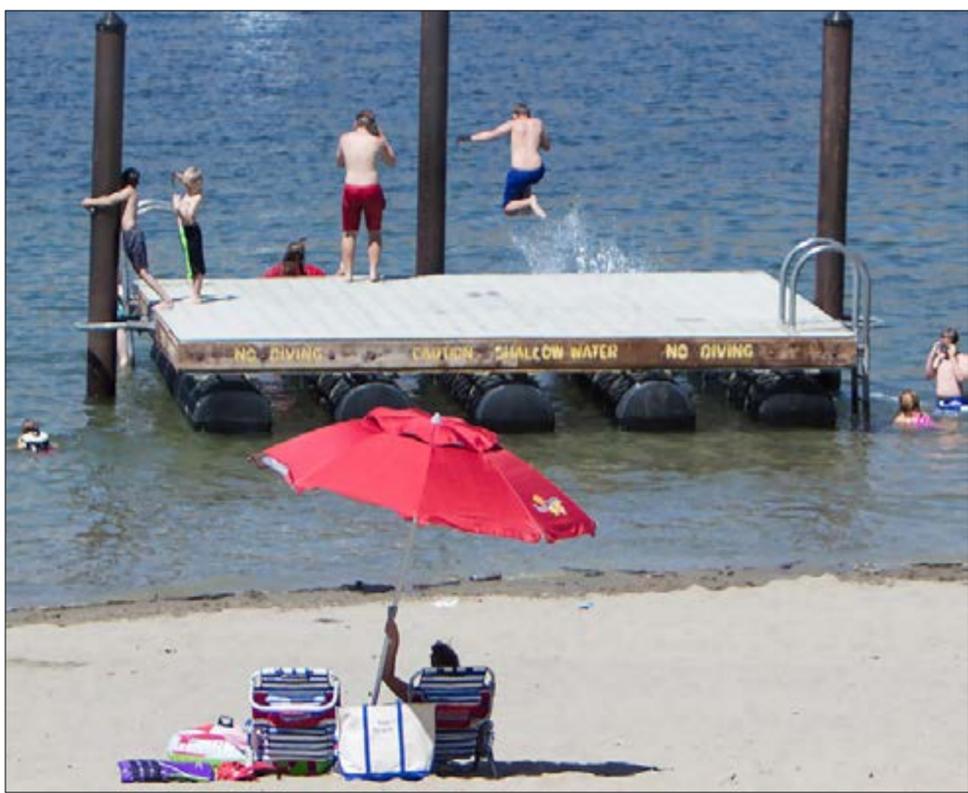

Please sign Bev's online register book at www.stratefuneral-home.com.

Strate Funeral Home of Grand Coulee, Washington, is honored to be serving Bev's family and friends.

Still coming up

Although the elevation of Lake Roosevelt was just six feet below full Tuesday, at 1,284 feet above sea level, kids jumping off the swim dock at Spring Canyon were still jumping off the deeper edge. The Bureau of Reclamation said Friday the level of the lake is continuing to rise and is expected to reach 1,286 at the end of June.

Join the Arbor Day Foundation to help high-need forests

Forests across America are a prized natural resource, and anyone can help plant trees in these vital areas by joining the Arbor Day Foundation this month.

Through the Replanting Our National Forests campaign, the Arbor Day Foundation will honor each new member who joins in July by planting 10 trees in forests that have been devastated by wildfires, insects, and disease.

The cost for joining the Arbor Day Foundation is a $10 donation.

America's national forests face enormous challenges, including unprecedented wildfires that have left a backlog of more than one million acres in need of replanting. The Foundation has worked with the United States Forest Service for more than 25 years to plant trees in high-need forests. Our national forests provide habitat for wildlife, keep the air clean, and help ensure safe drinking water for more than 180 million Americans.

"Keeping our forests healthy is vital to the health of people and the entire planet," said Matt Harris, chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation. "By planting trees in our national forests, we will preserve precious natural resources and the benefits they provide for generations to come."

To join the Arbor Day Foundation and help plant trees in our national forests, send a $10 membership contribution to Replanting Our National Forests, Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410 or visit arborday.org/july.

Soccer program approved for fall again

Coach assignments listed

by Roger S. Lucas

Soccer will continue to be part of the Grand Coulee Dam School District's athletic program, the school board voted Monday night.

The girl's soccer program was highly successful, Athletic Director Levi Seekins advised the board in a written memo. The program, which started last fall, had 18 girls turn out, and coaches are already involved in summer programs.

The board had approved soccer on a trial basis a year ago and were quick to vote to continue the sport.

"Soccer showed a lot of improvement as the year went on and we expect to do better this next year," Seekins wrote.

Soccer Coach Casey Moore appeared at the board meeting, but the school board didn't need any encouragement and had already voted to continue the sport.

In other coaching assignments, the following were offered contracts for the 2017-18 school year:

Football - Loren Endsley, head coach; Cole Seaver and Bradley Oliver, assistants

Volleyball - Kasey Garvin, head coach; Melanie Herndon, assistant

Cross country - Gary Darnold, head coach

Soccer - Casey Moore, head coach

Fall cheer coach - Lori Adkins, head coach

Boys basketball - Levi Seekins, head coach; Bradley Oliver, assistant

Girls basketball - Wallace Pleasants, head coach; Matthew Pleasants, assistant

Wrestling - Steve Hood, head coach; Lee Largent, assistant

Winter cheer - Lori Adkins, head coach

Golf - Steve Files, head coach

Track & Field - Lori Adkins, head coach; Tera Remington and Paul Braun, assistants

Tennis - Steve Archer, head coach; Janice Archer, assistant

Baseball - William Nicholson, head coach

April students of the month

Supplemental contracts approved for LR schools

by Roger S. Lucas

The Grand Coulee Dam School District board Monday night approved a number of supplemental contracts for various functions at the school.

Aaron Derr was issued supplemental contracts as a district website administrator and a 12th-grade advisor. Carrie Derr was approved as K-6 ASB advisor and for technical support.

Christel Pitner was approved as 10th-grade advisor; Julie Friedlander was approved as 12th-grade advisor;

Karrie Utz and Kim Stanger were approved as Native American advisors; Lee Largent was given a supplemental contract for clean-up time, prep time and other duties; Shayla Picard was approved for technical support and 11th-grade advisor; Sheila Darnold is ASB advisor for grades 7-12; Steve Hood was given a supplemental contract for prep time, clean-up time and additional duties; and Tammy Norris was issued a supplemental contract as 9th- and 12th-grade advisor.

Karen Pace will teach Jr/Sr high band and chorus.

New Nespelem supt. sworn in

by Scott Hunter

Nespelem School District has brought back Dr. Mary Hall, who was sworn in as the new superintendent at a board meeting Monday. The board also approved hiring Jeff Golding as a middle school science teacher. The Gonzaga University graduate is not a certificated teacher yet and will work on getting that certificate this year. Director Nancy Armstrong-Montes said he would also be receiving classroom management training.

The board also approved hiring Marshal Stanger Adolph as a custodian.

Annual Coyote Open tourney set

The annual Coyote Open Golf tournament is scheduled for July 8 and 9 at Banks Lake Golf Course.

Sponsored by Key Bank and the Coulee Dam Casino, the tourney tee times are Saturday, 8 and 11 a.m., with a shotgun start at 9 a.m. Sunday.

For more information contact Bunky Andrews 509-631-4565, Larry Jordan 509-429-1667 or the golf course 509-633-1400.

Let's Play Tag!

Don't forget!

Compiled from police files

Grand Coulee Police

6/19 - Police responded to a report that two brothers were fighting at an Electric Boulevard location. One brother said he had tried to enter the house to get some sleep but the other prevented him from doing so, so he punched him in the face 10 times, the report stated.

- A driver southbound on Martin Road was stopped by police because it was noted that he wasn't wearing a seatbelt. Police cited the driver on the seatbelt issue and also for driving with a suspended license and for driving without a valid operator's license.

- USBR Plant Protection advised police of a suspicious bag in the lower Visitor Center parking lot. An officer found that the bag contained trash.

6/20 - Police went to an Alcan Road location because an EMS crew had reported a combative patient. When police arrived, the patient was calm and was taken to Coulee Medical Center.

6/21 - A woman at Coulee Medical Center with a puncture wound from a dog bite told an officer that she had been walking on Main Street when a dog rushed out and bit her on the leg. The officer cited the dog's owner and informed him that the city would review the situation and could declare the dog to be "potentially dangerous," triggering a number of requirements he would have to meet to keep the dog.

- A man was arrested and taken to Grant County jail after he allegedly damaged a vehicle and items belonging to his girlfriend, who requested a no-contact court order after the domestic issue, which occurred in the Safeway parking lot. The man was cited for malicious mischief and domestic violence.

6/22 - A woman on Goodfellow Avenue in Electric City told police that she was afraid of her neighbors and wanted them banned from her property. The officer advised the neighbors.

- Coulee Medical Center advised police that a man who had been banned from the hospital campus, unless he needed medical attention, was back. Police took the man into custody.

- USBR Plant Protection advised police that some visitors were hanging over a wall near the pumping plant. Police advised the family that they couldn't do that, and they left the area.

- A person at Spring Canyon apartments was advised to turn his music down.

- A driver was cited after not fully stopping at the intersection at Four Corners. She was also cited for not having insurance.

6/23 - Police are sending a report to the prosecutor's office concerning one woman attacking another at the Grand Coulee Motel. The officer is asking for charges of second-degree malicious mischief, third-degree domestic violence, and fourth-degree assault, domestic violence.

Coulee Dam Police

6/11 - A woman on Spruce Street reported a "suspicious" person and a person on Birch Street also reported a "suspicious" person. The reports came seven hours apart.

- A woman on Camas Street reported an animal problem to police.

6/12 - Police found a stolen vehicle across from the casino and questioned a man about it. He told police that he had been with a woman, currently in the casino, when she had bought it. He went to get her but returned to tell police that she didn't want to leave the machine she was playing. Police went into the casino, only to discover the woman was gone. The vehicle was impounded.

6/15 - Police stopped a vehicle that had skidded into the curb and saw a man walk away. The officer questioned the driver, who said the man leaving was her boyfriend and that there was a protection order against him being with her, hence the reason he had walked away. She reported that the two were living together in a house on Birch Street.

6/16 - A man on Tulip Street reported that two dogs at the house behind him on Walnut Street were constantly barking. The officer tried to contact the owner but no one would answer the door.

6/17 - A man on Stevens Avenue told police that someone had rummaged through two of his vehicles that had been left unlocked, but nothing was taken.

- A resident of Central Drive told police that someone tried to take a large planter from their yard. Police checked the area and found two people, one a felon, who said they were just walking to the casino. The officer couldn't tell if they were involved in an attempted theft of the planter.

6/18 - A couple on Fir Street reported the loss of some diamond rings and a diamond necklace taken from their house. Entry, they said, had been through a bathroom window. A neighbor told police that he had seen the couple's son in the area. Police found a misdemeanor warrant out of Grant County on the son, and they are investigating.
