SERVING THE GRAND COULEE DAM AREA, WASHINGTON STATE

APRIL 16, 2014

Newsbriefs

Book fair in progress

The PTA is sponsoring a book fair in progress at Grand Coulee Dam Middle School from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the library. They could use help with the event. If you'd like to help, call Kim at 633-3542 or Karen at 633-0520.

The book fair runs through Thursday.

Selecting council

Coulee Dam plans to select a council member at its town council meeting April 23. One of three candidates, Carol Wetzel, Shawn Derrick or Tamra Sacchi will replace Bob Poch, who resigned recently.

Mayor Greg Wilder circulated information about the three candidates to council members last Wednesday and advised them not to discuss it among themselves, but to have discussions in public at their next meeting.

POWER group to meet

Promoters of Wildlife & Environmental Resources (POWER) will hold its annual meeting at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, April 17, at the Senior Center in Grand Coulee. The 2014 goals and projects will be presented and discussed. A recap of last year's activities and election of officers will take place. The meeting is open to the public, and new members are encouraged. There are no dues for members.

Adding a teacher

The Grand Coulee Dam School District board approved advertising for a third second-grade teacher and an elementary school physical education specialist at a special meeting last Wednesday night. In other action, the board accepted the resignation of Lee Seekins from her 21st Century position and named James Van Geystel as assistant baseball coach at Lake Roosevelt High School.

Flu outbreak

The Grant County Health District is working closely with staff of Garden Oasis Assisted Living in Ephrata to control a recent flu outbreak. The Health District was notified that two Garden Oasis residents had died due to influenza-like related complications. Both had other high risk medical conditions.

The Health District advises not to enter Garden Oasis or Columbia Basin Hospital unless you absolutely must. It is recommended that all visitors wear a face mask.

Flu symptoms include temperatures over 100 degrees with a cough and/or sore throat. Those with the flu may also get headaches, runny or stuffy nose, muscle or body aches, fatigue and some times vomiting and diarrhea.

1,849 tons of garbage not enough

Revenues at the Delano Transfer Station are running behind last year's numbers, a report to the area mayors noted. For the first three months of this year revenues are down $5,762, a report issued at the Regional Board of Mayors meeting Monday disclosed.

In another report, Grand Coulee produced the most garbage at the transfer station last year. Grand Coulee produced 698 tons, Coulee Dam had 584 tons, Electric City had 465 tons and Elmer City 102 tons.

Towns splitting on wastewater plant question

by Roger S. Lucas

Two towns, Coulee Dam and Elmer City, linked together by wastewater treatment issues, plan to go it alone in seeking an alternative analysis to determine how to proceed with a treatment plant plan.

Elmer City, moments before the town council met last Thursday, received word from Indian Health Services that the agency plans to fund $27,600 of a feasibility study in regard to wastewater treatment. The town will add $6,400 to the study for a total of $34,000.

The town council acknowledged the announcement, but didn't formally act on it at its meeting.

Coulee Dam also started a similar process last Thursday, inviting engineering firms to present "statements of qualifications" for the town to consider in the selection of a firm to revise or amend the town's wastewater treatment plan.

Coulee Dam also invited Elmer City Mayor Pro-tem Donna DeWinkler and Ron Toulou from the Colville Tribes to the meeting with Coulee Dam Mayor Greg Wilder, public works Superintendent Barry Peacock and wastewater treatment plant operator Tim Lynch.

Three firms were selected from among the nine who provided statements. The three firms are: Wilson Engineering from Bellingham; Varela & Associates of Spokane; and TD&H Engineering of Spokane.

These three firms will be invited to further participate in a selection process involving the Coulee Dam Town Council.

Currently, Coulee Dam treats Elmer City's sewage at its wastewater treatment plant in east Coulee Dam under a 50-year agreement.

A $4.92 million plan to upgrade the existing plant that serves both towns, which had been due to begin in 2014, stalled as Wilder won the mayoral election after campaigning against the plan.

During the campaign to stall the project, Elmer City joined forces with Wilder. Elmer City has since indicated that it might go it alone in developing its own wastewater treatment plant, gaining the support of Indian Health Services.

The two alternative analyses of the $4.92 million plan to build at Coulee Dam's present site, will get viewing from two perspectives.

Wilder stated that the IHS study will essentially determine what is best for Elmer City, while the Coulee Dam study will determine what is in the best interests of the two towns.

The Coulee Dam study, estimated by Wilder at $60,000 - $90,000, may be paid for from the initial loan the town sought from the Department of Ecology.

"They are still studying if they will do that," Wilder stated Monday. If not, he said, the town will

Old pavement in use again

by Roger S. Lucas

The out-with the old and in with the new pavement project in the Grand Coulee area ended up helping Electric City pave one of its newest streets.

Electric City received over 50 truckloads of ground up pavement from the Department of Transportation's paving project in Grand Coulee and spread it over Snyder Road.

Ken Dexter and Donna Deckman, from the city's public works department, said the ground up pavement provided a six-inch cover of what was one of the city's streets to improve in its six-year street plan.

The city spread the ground up pavement, rolled it, and ended up after two days with a much improved street, Dexter stated.

Dexter said the road will require more work rolling it and watering it, until warmer weather firms it up.

Wayne Snyder had appeared before council recently to inform members that former mayor Ray Halsey had promised improvement to the street, and that the city had promised help for the street when the Snider property was annexed a few years ago.

The dumping of the ground up pavement was also a plus for the DOT in that it didn't have to haul the material very far to dispose of it.

Hospital CEO resigns, threatens suit

Bigelow named interim leader

by Scott Hunter

Coulee Medical Center's chief executive tendered his resignation with a required 90-day notice last Thursday, offering to stay on until the end of that time but stating his intention to seek "liability claims."

J. Scott Graham's resignation letter was delivered by Chief Operating Officer Alan Wagner to the hospital commission during its meeting Monday night, but President Jerry Kennedy had received the letter in an email from Graham on Thursday.

"The Board of Directors, in concert with the hospital physicians, have engaged in a pattern of retaliatory conduct toward me that has left me no alternative but to pursue other employment opportunities," Graham wrote. "The Board's ongoing retaliation and refusal to act in good faith toward me in my position as hospital CEO have effectively resulted in the termination of my employment. Under these circumstances my only reasonable option is to resign."

Graham wrote that the board had been dealing with him in bad faith for months.

"The physicians have tortiously interfered with my employment relationship with the hospital. The board has engaged in a pattern of retaliatory conduct against me since I properly raised the important issue of physician compensation being out of compliance with federal law. I do intend to pursue liability claims against the hospital district and the physicians over these issues. My attorney will be in contact with hospital counsel in the near future with respect to these claims."

The board of commissioners unanimously voted to waive the 90-day clause and terminate Graham's position immediately. After an executive session, they installed Debra Bigelow as interim hospital district superintendent and chief executive officer.

Bigelow was the hospital's chief financial officer for many years and was director of community outreach until Monday night.

Daycare, bus garage zoning in

by Roger S. Lucas

Grand Coulee decided Tuesday night to move forward on zoning changes that will permit seniors to build a garage for their two buses, and allow the development of a daycare center, all in the central business district.

The council held a public hearing on the zoning changes Tuesday night and two individuals spoke favorable on the changes.

Charles Long, representing the Grand Coulee Dam Senior Center, told council members there was a real need of a garage that would hold two senior buses that were recently given to the center. The seniors have appeared before the council on numerous occasions asking for a change in the zoning law. The garage will be built, after the council passes the zoning ordinance, on property the seniors own adjacent to their center.

Fire Chief Richard Paris spoke on both issues, urging the council to move forward.

The council, later, passed the zoning requests 5-0.

City Clerk Carol Boyce said the council will likely have an ordinance before it at its meeting May 19.

The clerk said she will have the ordinance drawn up by then for final council passage.

When council passes the ordinance both changes will be in effect.

Two women initially brought up the need for a daycare center about a year ago, but have not appeared before council since then.

They had asked the council to consider a change in zoning so a daycare center could be established on Main Street. That issue is now settled for anyone wanting to start a daycare center.

Bowling alley sale in process

by Roger S. Lucas

Riverview Lanes is in the process of being sold.

Pat and Sara Zlateff said this week that Sherry Moore, an Electric City resident, will become owner of the eight-lane alley on May 1.

Moore still has to work her way through a lease arrangement with the town of Coulee Dam.

She said Tuesday that she is working on "a lease similar to the one that Zlateff's have."

The Zlateffs have owned the alley for the past seven years and essentially got into the business so that it wouldn't close.

"My parents had the bowling alley here years ago, and I didn't want to be the one to close it up," Pat stated.

The Zlateff's lease is up at the end of the month.

Sara and Sherry attended the last Coulee Dam council meeting and let the town know of the intent to switch owners. They were quickly put on the agenda for the April 23 meeting.

Moore and her husband, Jeremy, have six children, all of them bowlers. They are Samantha, 14; Alexis, 10; Julie, 10; Derian, 8; Austin, 8; and Athina, 5.

Their mother, who bowls in a league, had a 246 on Tuesday. Not a bad score, bowlers would agree. Her highest score was a 290. Jeremy works in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Olympia as a computer programmer.

Sherry said she learned to bowl

Researcher Dechant to speak on monument history

by Roger S. Lucas

Coulee Dam's town council will hear about those who gave their lives during construction of Grand Coulee Dam next Wednesday night, and how there is a need for a suitable memorial to them.

Susan Dechant, a researcher who lives near Colville, will bring the council up to date on the memorial that once stood near Delano and then was confiscated for non-payment and relocated on the Stevens County Courthouse grounds.

The memorial featured the names of 44 who had died to date (1938) in construction of the dam. The memorial, ordered by the American Legion, had a $1,750 price tag on it and the monument manufacturer from Colville came to Delano under cover of darkness one night and took it back for non-payment.

The monument now features the names of those from Stevens County who served in World War II.

Dechant will provide details of the monument's storied past and reveal that she now has names for about 80 of those who lost their lives during construction at the dam.

The story has sparked interest in Coulee Dam official circles, and Mayor Greg Wilder and Councilmember Gayle Swagerty went to Colville recently to see the original monument.

Dechant hopes that the monument's history and the need for a proper memorial will prompt the town of Coulee Dam to commit to placing a new memorial here using hotel/motel tax money.

She will give her talk after 6 p.m., Wednesday, April 23, at the town hall chambers. The public is invited to hear the story of the monument.

Kennedy said the board disagreed with Graham's characterization of the relationship breaking down since last fall between the physicians, Graham and the board since the introduction of a proposed revamp of physician pay that would cut out base salaries, paying instead on a production unit basis.

in Colville while she was growing up and has never looked back.

Her reason for buying the business was that she "didn't want to see it closed."

Her plans for the business include expanding the days the alley is open, expanding league play and finding a way to attract more open play.

carrier and they'll defend the hospital as appropriate."

Graham's resignation ends months of what many have described as increasing tensions at CMC, which Kennedy said Tuesday were already showing signs of abatement.

Filling a position on their own board, the commissioners voted to appoint Clea Pryor to take the seat vacated by Greg Behrens, who resigned earlier this year. Pryor and John Adkins, superintendent of Nespelem School District, had both written letters of interest to the board. Pryor, a former longtime hospital employee, had come to speak out against the administration after having defended it for some time.

Letters to the Editor

Moving forward

I had some goals and expectations when I decided to run for hospital commissioner, primarily involving increasing utilization of CMC while maintaining the financial solvency of the facility.

Since my election, however, I've been provided with a lot of material to read, and I have received many unsolicited comments from community members and hospital employees. As a result, those goals have rapidly changed.

Many people in this community remember very clearly the padlocking of the hospital in the 1970s for lack of medical personnel. I DO NOT want to be on a Board that is responsible for a closure of our medical facility, which is a very real possibility if our entire medical staff were to leave. We need to have the courage and support of the community to address our issues head on.

I understand that there are complicating factors involved in confronting our challenges, but I do not believe them to be of sufficient merit to risk the loss of a medical staff in which many in the community (including myself) have great trust.

One of my favorite quotes is from Dante and seems relevant in this situation: "The hottest places in hell are reserved for those who, in times of great moral crisis, maintain their neutrality."

We will move forward with a beautiful medical facility, a great staff, and the courage of our convictions.

To the people of the Grand Coulee Dam area, an opportunity

Recently our entire community went through a major upheaval which in one way or another involved all of us.

We saw that, when aroused, the people of this area can effect change. Our local hospital is such an important factor in our lives that we were ready to speak up, difficult as this can be for many of us.

Our latest board meeting set us a fine example of a group listening to the community and acting together.

Now, it seems to me, that we must speak up in an even more important way. It is the community, acting together, that can bring back a hospital that functions as it should. A hospital should care for all the people of the area. It doesn't matter whether you are a patient, a caregiver, work in the office, the lab, the kitchen, or any other service area. We need to come together, be willing to cooperate with each other, even if this means we have to be willing to compromise. We owe courtesy to others who hold different views, be ready to listen, and think before we speak.

This is a great opportunity for our community as a whole to show that when it counts we can work together for the good of all. In the next several months we will get a chance to show the world around us that we can come together. Let's not waste the chance to show what we can do when we work for the good of the whole community.

If you might want a building, better be heard

The planning meeting Tuesday the 29th of April at 7 p.m. at Electric City city hall is not just for steel buildings, it's for any accessory building over 850 square feet built out of any materials. If you think you might ever want a garage, shop or other accessory building bigger than 850 square feet, I would suggest you come to the meeting and be heard.

Things I think about

OK, sometimes when I look around the Coulee I see things or hear things, and I cannot help but dwell on these things for a while and just think.

For example, "I won't buy a house below the dam. What if the dam breaks?" I always laugh a little on the inside when I hear this. This dam is not going anywhere. I remember a teacher, years ago, doing research on how much firepower it would take to put a hole in the face of the dam. Even with a perfectly placed shot of the most powerful weapon known, he concluded, it would not even crack the dam at the weakest point. Take off a few layers of concrete yes, but a crack or hole was nearly impossible.

OK, so take outside weapons off the list. Earthquake maybe? Well, we have never had an earthquake in our area of the size that it would take to dislodge the dam. Could it happen? I suppose, but history says it's unlikely. Now if the dam were in Yellowstone Park, we'd be talking a whole different ball game. Just something I think about.

I have seen a lot of big squirrels lately in Grand Coulee. They are finally making a comeback. Years ago the use of DDT, a chemical pesticide used in the area, wiped out a lot of the smaller wildlife around the Coulee. Squirrels, Nighthawks, Rock Chucks and other critters took a big hit. They are coming back. You can now see squirrels doing high line acts across our roadways and moving into the trees that surround us. The night hawks can again be seen in the evening, collecting their fill of bugs. And of course the ground hogs are again welcoming the visitors to the VC, returning a past tradition of a furry welcome party to the tourists coming to see the dam.

Fishing, well, we could chat a lot about fishing. But here is my question for you: How come bank fishermen and women try and cast out as far as they can, while the boat fishermen and women try to get as close to the shore as possible? Just something I noticed. Maybe not as much on Lake Roosevelt, but on Banks Lake it seems to be the trend. I also remember when fishing as a kid, we could throw on a bobber and a little weighted red jig with a white tail, hook attached, and we could catch perch all day long. But these days rarely does a bobber, with anything, get a bite. By the way, the fish are getting smarter. So many bass will spit that worm out as soon as they feel the slightest pressure. Maybe that is just it, too much pressure.

Ever read Coulee Cops? Of course you do. Ever wonder how some criminals can be so stupid? I mean the ones with warrants. They always seem to be getting stopped for a headlight out, or failing to stop, or talking on their cell phones. They are wanted. They know it. So why do they not take the utmost precaution and try and not get caught? But I guess there is a reason they are wanted to begin with. Starts with a D and ends in a B. Don't worry, they won't be able to figure that out either.

Jess, shut up!

Raider baseball win and lose

by John R. McNeil II

The Raiders pummeled Pateros but lost to Liberty Bell last week in two away baseball games.

Lake Roosevelt came away with a 10-run victory over the Billygoats in Pateros April 8.

Trey Nicholson went four for five with a grand slam and a three-run home run to drive in seven runs for LR.

Chance Garvin scored four LR runs.

"We hit the ball well, but need to improve our defense," commented Head Coach Billy Nicholson on LR allowing the Billygoats to score eight runs in the victory.

Riding a two-game winning streak into the April 12 matchup with the Liberty Bell Mt. Lions at Liberty Bell the Raider bats fell silent.

Taren Redstar hit one of three and scored the only Raider run in the loss.

"We made too many mistakes to compete with league-leading Liberty Bell," Nicholson said.

Last night against Bridgeport, the Raiders hoped to reawaken the offense for rebound. On Saturday, the Raiders host Manson in a doubleheader starting at 11 a.m. on Greene Field.

LR trounced the Trojans at Manson March 25 by 20-9. The Trojans nabbed their first win of the season April 12 against the Oroville Hornets. Manson is second to last in the Central Washington 2B league ahead of White Swan by just one game.

Raider tennis has busy week

by John R. McNeil II

Raiders competed in three tennis matches during the past week. On April 10th LR travelled to Wilson Creek to take on the small Devils squad. Then on the 11th LR hosted the League leading Liberty Bell Mt. Lions. LR then turned around and hosted the Pateros Billygoats/Nannies on April 14th.

At Wilson Creek Daniel Campobasso remained undefeated for the season as he took down the Devils' number-one, Cotton Crane, 6-1, 6-0.

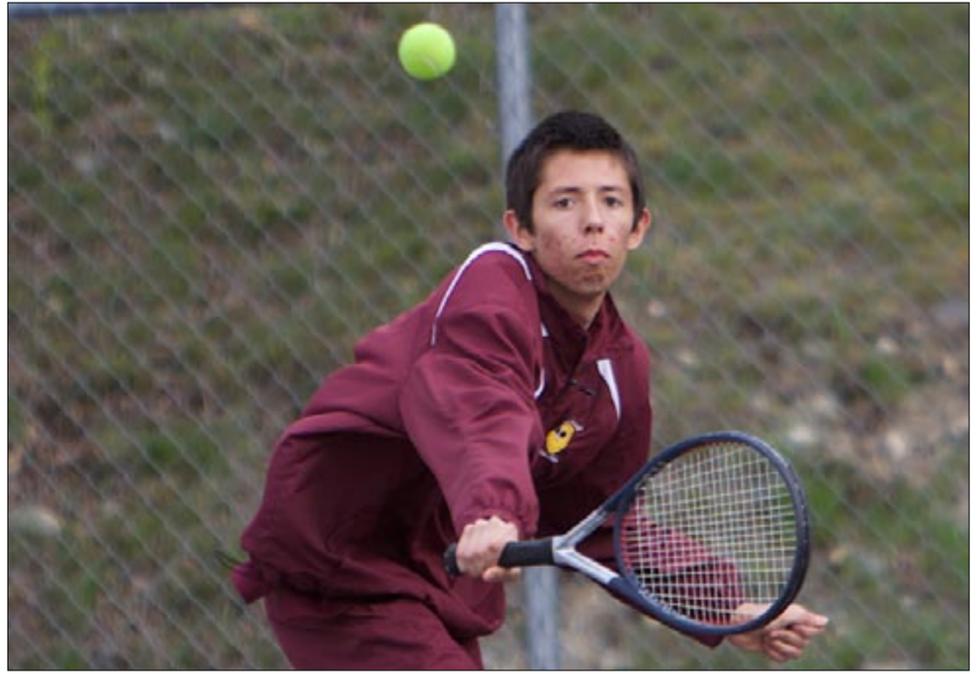

Areielle White had to step up to the number-one girls' singles spot as Holly Jo Carriere was sick. White rose to the challenge and defeated the Devils number-one, Samantha Dowers, 6-3, 6-2.

Wilson Creek had only two boys and three girls on their squad, which means some of the matches do not count toward the varsity score as only one match per player, per day counts. LR did not have a full squad due to sickness and not enough practices, which played a bigger factor Friday against the Mt. Lions.

Liberty Bell's superior numbers showed as the Raiders' Daniel Campobasso was handed his first loss of the season by Carlos Perez, 6-1, 6-1. The Raider boys were swept in their matches with the Mt. Lions. The lone Raider wins came from girls' singles action, with Areielle White defeating Erin Frey 6-1, 6-4 and Harmony Witten blanking Sylvia Leduc 6-0, 6-0.

Raider Head Coach Steve Archer noted that the Mt. Lions are the league leaders and the toughest B school in District 6.

Against the Pateros Billygoats Monday at home, Campobasso and Tyler Agosto won their singles matches, and the team of Agosto and Corban Wilder won in doubles action.

On the girls side, Tanya Ang won by forfeit and the team of Holly Jo Carriere and Areielle White won their doubles match.

LR now gets practice time as the match scheduled against White Swan for the April 17 was moved to April 22, starting at 4 p.m.

Archer is hoping to have the team at full strength with all nine boys and nine girls able to compete.

At Wilson Creek

• Boys' Singles: Dan Campobasso def. Cotton Crane 6-1,6-0; Brandin Smith def. Lane Ribail 6-1, 6-0
• Boys' Doubles: Brandin Smith & Tyler Agosto def. Crane & Ribail 6-4, 6-2
• Girls' Singles: Areielle White def. Samantha Dowers 6-3, 6-2; Tanya Ang lost to Emily Allen 6-4, 6-2

Track competes at Brewster Relays

by John R. McNeil II

Raider Track traveled to Bridgeport April 8 to take part in the Brewster Relays.

All events were scored as relays, even the throwing events. As of deadline, Raider Head Coach Lori Adkins had no comment on the meet. On athletic.net neither Coach Adkins or Brewster has uploaded any results for the meet.

Nathan Morrell led the Raiders in the discus with a throw of 83 feet, 10 inches. Paladine Williams threw a personal record in the discus of 82 feet. Now Williams is reaching for the 85-foot throw.

In the shot put, Raider throwers complained of an inordinately slick ring, which resulted in shorter throws than expected. Nathaniel Hall ran his 4x100 relay split in the 11-second range, which gave him great confidence going into yesterday's meet.

LR Track travelled to Davenport yesterday to take part in a Bi-County League meet. Local competition from Wilbur-Creston, Pateros, Republic, Mansfield, and Davenport were present. Panorama schools filled out the field.

On Saturday LR will travel to Quincy for the 15th Annual CliftonLarsenAllen Invitational.

Field Events will start at 10:30 a.m. with track events beginning at 11:30 a.m. The competition for Saturday is steep with seven of the eight Caribou Trail League schools present. From the Central Washington League, there will be Manson, Oroville, Pateros, and Soap Lake. From the Bi-County: Lind-Ritzville/Sprague, Odessa-Harrington, and Wilbur Creston. Ephrata, Othello, and Toppenish will compete from the 2A Central Washington Athletic Conference.

Golf splits with Riverside Christian

by John R. McNeil II

Raider Golf hosted its first home match of the season on April 10 at Banks Lake Golf Course.

Lake Roosevelt had only three golfers compete against Riverside Christian, so there is no team score for the event.

Austin Rosenbaum was the only Raider boy at the match. He played 18 holes.

Rosenbaum continues to lead the Raiders picking up his second medal of the season finishing the 18 hole match with a score of 99.

Madisyn Byam improved her score to 61 strokes for the nine holes played, and Mikel Friedlander finished right behind Byam with 62 strokes. The improved scores for the Raider girls still was not enough to overcome the Riverside Christian girls, who finished first and second on the day.

Raider golf looks to continue the positive improvement today at 2:30 p.m. at Banks Lake Golf Course as they take on the Oroville Hornets.

LR hits the road tomorrow to take on Manson at the Lake Chelan Golf Club for a 2:30 p.m. match.

Boys' Medalist: Austin Rosenbaum, LR, 99 (18 holes). Noah Brown, RC, 100, Richie Hochrein, RC, 108.

Girls' Medalist: Sophia Tilley, RC, 49 (9 holes); Desiree Samuelsons, RC, 59; Madisyn Byam, LR, 61; Mikel Friedlander, LR, 62.

C'est La Vie

by Frankie Delano

Hello again. Or, Hi y'all! Yes, it's me, Frankie Delano, back at The Star after a hiatus of about six months with no shopping and junking news to crow about and a very long stretch without any yard or garage sales in the Coulee, except for a pre-holiday sale in the former Grand Coulee Liquor Store; and in January, I happened upon an indoor/outdoor unadvertised sale at a downriver home near Elmer City.

For some reason, Black Beauty, the Delano pickup truck, refused to drive past that January sale, probably because the driver, I, caught a glimpse of tables loaded with stuff and a couple of shoppers bent over those tables in what I call the "hunch mode," which means: with legs and feet in a firm stance (just in case, a shopper tries to push you out of your spot at the heap) you lean forward hunching your shoulders to maximize your reach and with arms outstretched, you let your hands do what hands do best in the hunch-mode, handle all kinds of merchandise with finesse. So, at the next sale that you go to, practice the hunch-mode. It works.

What can I say? The piles blowing in the wind at that Elmer City sale were a familiar and comforting sight, a calling of sorts, so I made my way up the long driveway for a look-see. Was it worth the stop? Of course! Where else could a yard sale fanatic find a half-dozen nearly new beach towels for 50 cents each.

The annual shopping and junking season in the Coulee is on its way as of last Saturday with two sales, both held in Grand Coulee, and one advertised as an estate sale. A crowd of 30 or more shoppers gathered outside the fenced yard on Partello St., waiting for the 9 a.m. opening while eyeballing the stuff set out on several tables, on the grounds and inside a garage. Before 10 a.m., about two-thirds of the hundreds of household items on sale were gone. Frankie D. took a look at a savvy shopper's find: an old carpenter's tool box, made of wood with an interior hand tool box and some old stuff like pencils and railroad booklets out of Boston, Mass. and dated 1929. The price of that treasure was a $1.50. Such a deal. Plus, I only saw a couple of shoppers in the hunch mode, both of them had long reaches too.

Let's move on. When this column appears in The Star, you'll find some new and different tidbits to ponder, digest and, hopefully, find entertaining. Why, you ask? Here's the thing, Frankie D. has had an epiphany, not really suddenly, and not a flash-in-the-pan intuition, but more like a three-way light bulb, from 50, 100, and at its brightest 150 watts, so join me next time when we will explore some of the "going's on" here in the Coulee and more.

And finally, a question. What is a hyper-miler? I have seen a few slowpoke drivers in the Coulee but not many. I wonder what living in the Coulee would be like if quite a few hyper-milers moved here and took over the roadways. I'll be back to explain about "hyper-miling" and how it we might make it work for us with the summer season just around the corner.

Coulee Cops

Compiled from police files

Grand Coulee Police

4/7 - Plant Protection advised police that a boom truck was blocking the highway near Riley Point. The driver told police that he thought the truck was out of gas and someone was getting fuel for the truck.

- A man living on Goodfellow in Electric City advised police that he thought someone had tried to get into his house by jimmying the door. The man fixed the door.

- A man on Lewis Street reported that someone had smashed his Mercedes Benz with a log about 24 inches long. Several windows had also been smashed. He asked that a woman he suspected be banned from his property. The man was advised to report to police if the woman came to his property again.

4/8 - Police were called for assistance in a domestic dispute incident in Lakeview Terrace. Police found the woman had fled and those still inside the residence refused to answer the door. When a Lincoln County officer arrived the incident was turned over to him.

- A boy on a bicycle who told police that he was looking for antlers on Bureau of Reclamation property was asked to leave, and he did.

- The man on Lewis Street who reported that someone had damaged his Mercedes told police that someone had entered his travel trailer. He said nothing was missing and he told police that he went to a woman's house where the occupant was warned to stay away from his property.

4/9 - A man told police that a strange light was seen on the coulee wall from his position at Osborne Bay. He said he thought it might have been a plane crash or meteorite.

4/10 - Police raced to the Grant County Mental Health office when a panic button had been pressed. The patrolman found three people inside, one a new employee who was unaware of the panic button.

4/10 - Two men who were attempting to sell meat from the back of their truck in Electric City were told by police that they couldn't operate without a license. They had previously been to city hall but didn't secure a license. They left.

-Police found a black computer bag with a laptop and a baseball cap in the middle of the intersection near Burkin Boulevard. They are holding the items at police headquarters.

4/11 - A man on "A" Street told police that someone had stolen four batteries worth about $500 from his property.

Workmen operating contractor's prepack grout equipment, during pumping of grout in prepack areas as the base of the right training wall as follows: top, two double drum grout mixers; center, two F.S. Simplex pumps and bottom, four triplex grout pumps with hose connections. This work is being performed by the Pacific Bridge Company, contractor, as part of its contract for the repair of the spillway bucket section of Grand Coulee Dam. — March 1949 A man driving on 2nd Street who wasn't wearing his seat belt was stopped and cited for that and for not having insurance.

- A man who called in to report that his wife was drunk and driving was cited for making a false report to police. Police had located the man's wife and found that she wasn't drunk.

4/12 - Police were asked to check on a man who reportedly wanted to end his life and found that he was asleep at his Burdin Boulevard residence and was OK.

- A man staying at Grand Coulee Motel reported that his boat had been prowled and four fishing poles and a lot of tackle was taken. He said the loss was about $3,000.

- A couple was stopped by police on the 500 kv yard access road where the driver stated that he'd been looking for the Crown Point overlook, realized he was on the wrong road and was seeking a place to turn around. The officer gave him proper directions.

- A patrolman was called to Safeway where he found an intoxicated, bare-footed woman who said she'd had an argument with her boyfriend. She said she needed a ride home and the officer gave her a ride home.

- Police were called to the Wolf's Den Bar, where they could hear loud music coming from the establishment and see several people leaving the bar. While leaving, two people fell down. Police had been to the bar earlier when the officer advised the bartender that a report would be forwarded to the Liquor Control Board.

4/13 - Police found the door to a business open and secured the premises.

- Police got a call to a domestic violence incident through dispatch, but upon investigation found that the call was for Ephrata, not Grand Coulee.

- Police went to a residence on Fortuyn Road after getting a report of domestic violence. A woman there told police that an intoxicated man had slapped her. The officer couldn't verify this and the woman packed her bag and left, saying she would return to get the rest of her things. She had been living with the man for the past three years.

- Police had some tourists from California delete pictures of the guard shack at the top of the dam from their camera. The three tourists were 69, 69 and 73 years old.

- An officer stopped a vehicle because of a faulty headlamp and later gave the man a ticket for not wearing his seatbelt.

It's WSU master gardener volunteer week

Washington Gov. Jay Inslee, has proclaimed the week of April 13-19, 2014 as Washington State University Master Gardener Volunteer Week. The program, which is celebrating its 41st year of service, was begun in the state of Washington as a result of expanding interest in gardening in rapidly growing urban areas. Today the horticulture "master" volunteer concept is so effective it has spread throughout the United States and several provinces in Canada.

The initial training curriculum, which was developed by the area extension agents in collaboration with Western Washington Resource and Extension Center education specialists in Puyallup, included culture of ornamental plants, lawns, and fruit; control of plant diseases, insects and weeds, and safe use of pesticides. In the spring of 1973 the first training sessions took place in King County and Pierce County. Later that year training was provided by the Horticulture Extension agent in Spokane, making the program a statewide endeavor.

Today there are nearly 4,000 master gardeners across the state, staffing plant clinics in 105 communities and 171 locations. Each master gardener receives approximately 60 hours of training and volunteers a minimum of 50 hours as a community educator in his or her community, extending the service of the university to more than 500,000 people each year. Master Gardener Volunteers teach local community members about managing their gardens and landscapes in a sustainable manner. They emphasize environmental priorities, such as water conservation and water quality protection. In addition, Master gardener volunteers encourage reducing the impact of invasive species and work to increase public awareness of healthy living through gardening.

Master gardeners also enhance communities through demonstration gardens and donation of produce to local food banks. They help low-income citizens learn to grow their own food and become more self-sufficient.

As a master gardener, I would love to hear from you about any problems and successes in your gardening endeavors. With the combined resources from other master gardener volunteers and WSU Extension research, we can usually find answers to your questions. This summer I will be at the Saturday's Market in Grand Coulee, along with a new master gardener trainee, Arrow Coyote, on the first Saturday of each month.
